«32. When considering issues related to handing over a person sentenced to custody, courts should take into account the minimum time left to serve as set as a condition for handing over by an international treaty of the Russian Federation or an agreement by competent bodies of the Russian Federation and of a foreign state, if the individual is handed over on the basis of the principle of reciprocity.";

17) Add Item 32¹ as follows:

«32¹. To recommend that courts, considering the provisions of bilateral and multilateral international treaties of the Russian Federation in force in the field of consular relations (for example, the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations of 24 April 1963, the Consular Convention between the Russian Federation and the Kyrgyz Republic of 25 January 1994), as an additional guarantee of ensuring the rights and interests of a person sentenced to custody, discuss the issue of the need to notify the consular office (consular department of the embassy) of the corresponding state about the consideration of the files related to handing over this person to serve the sentence in that state.";

18) Item 36 shall be revised to read as follows:

«36. Proceeding from, in particular, the provisions of Article 12 of the Convention on the Transfer of Sentenced Prisoners to Continue Serving a Custodial Sentence, incomparability of the conditions and manner for the convicted person to serve a custodial sentence, being, in accordance with Article 471 of the CrPC RF, one of the grounds for refusing to hand him/her over, are understood as such differences in the conditions and the manner of serving a sentence in the administering state and the Russian Federation that preclude achieving the purpose of the punishment: restoration of social, correction of the sentenced person and prevention of new crimes (Article 43 of the CrC RF), and do not ensure the continuation of serving the sentence in accordance with the legislation of the administering state without worsening the situation of the sentenced person.

In each specific case, the court must establish the circumstances connected with the manner and conditions for serving a sentence in the administering state. Whereat, absence in a foreign state of the specific type of correctional facility appointed for the sentenced person by a court of the Russian Federation, as well as differences, for example, in the rules for crediting the period of application of a measure of restraint for time served, the procedure for parole from serving a sentence, the number of short-term and long-term visits, allowed care packages and parcels provided for by law in the Russian Federation and the administering state for serving a sentence in correctional facilities of different types (regimes), should not dictate refusal to transfer him/her.";

19) In Item 37, the sentence "The maximum custodial term envisaged by the legislation of the administering state should not be clearly incomparable with the term of the sentence handed down by the court of the Russian Federation." shall be deleted;

20) Appendix to Ruling of the Plenary Session of the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation No. 11 dated 14 June 14 2012 "On Consideration by Courts of Matters Connected with Extradition for Criminal Prosecution or Execution of a Sentence, as well as Handing Over to Serve a Sentence" shall be deleted.

2. Ruling of the Plenary Session of the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation No. 22 dated 27 June 2023 "On the Application by Courts of the Provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code of the Russian Federation Regulating the Jurisdiction of a Criminal Case" shall be supplemented with Items 18 and 19 as follows:

"18. According to the provisions of Part 3 of Article 389² and Part 1 of Article 391 of the CrPC RF, a ruling by a judge of a higher court to grant a petition (submission) for change of territorial jurisdiction may be appealed before a final court decision is made on the case, and a criminal case is subject to referral to the relevant court only after the said ruling has entered into legal force.

19. A decision by a judge (court) to reject a petition for transferring a criminal case according to jurisdiction, filed by a party based on Article 34 of the CrPC RF, as well as a ruling by a judge of a higher court to reject a petition for changing the territorial jurisdiction of a case (parts 1–3 of Article 35 of the CrPC RF) do not entail consequences that go beyond the scope of merely criminal procedural relations, do not limit the constitutional rights and freedoms of an individual, and do not cause them harm, which may subsequently prove to be irreparable, and therefore do not require immediate review by a higher court. Proceeding from that and according to the meaning of the related provisions of Parts 2 and 3 of Article 389² of the CrPC RF, such interim court decisions are not subject to independent appeal. However, the issue of the legality of the panel of judges in the said cases may be raised by the parties when appealing the final court decision."
